Senator Wilson Strawberry

Senator Wilson Strawberry.—This wonderful berry originated in Eastern New York in 1913 and is the result of careful breeding combined with watchful care and proving for a period of seven years.

Senator Wilson are large and smooth, averaging 35 berries to a quart, result of careful breeding combined with watchful care and proving for a period of seven years. I have grown them side by side with 11 standard varieties—same treatment, same cultivation. Senator Wilson excel them all in flavor, size and quantity. Berries are not bunched or misshapen.

It maintains its large size to the last picking.

Color—Senator Wilson, when ripe, is rich, bright red all over, no green or knotty tips.

Seeds medium, small and sparing redish caste.

Flavor—Senator Wilson berry has been pronounced by experts in quality and flavor to excel all—none as sweet and juicy.

I have been able to get better prices for Senator Wilson than any of the 11 other varieties. Sometimes the demand was so great that I could not supply them.

The plants are robust, sturdy, free from all disease. The plants invariably stand out conspicuously among other varieties because of the size, vigor and deep color of their foliage. An immense root system enables the plants to withstand the vicissitudes of dry seasons and bear perfect fruit when other varieties are drying up.

Blossoms are perfect, self-fertile, and do not need other varieties for pollination.

To the Novice.—Do not allow your plants to bear fruit this season, it will reduce the vitality. The plants need to be well established to produce new runners and full crop next year. Cut all blossoms off this year with scissors.

When plants arrive, should the ground be dry, water and shade them will set 25 to 35 new runners. 2 or 3 days

Senator Wilson ripen four days later than Early Ozark. Each plant will set 25 to 35 new runners.

One acre of Senator Wilson strawberries will bring you in more profit than four acres of potatoes—and less work.
